KEY RISKS

6. What are the key risks associated with this product?

General Risks of investing in unit trust:

Market Risks	Market risk refers to the possibility that an investment will lose value because of a general decline in financial markets, due to economic, political and/or other factors, which will result in a decline in a fund's net asset value.
Liquidity Risk	Liquidity risk refers to the ease of liquidating an asset depending on the asset's volume traded in the market. If the Fund holds assets that are illiquid, or are difficult to dispose of, the value of the Fund will be negatively affected when it has to sell such assets at unfavourable prices.
Management Company Risk	The performance of a fund is dependent upon the experience, knowledge, expertise and investment strategies adopted by the fund manager of the fund. Lack of experience, knowledge and expertise, as well as poor execution of the investment strategy or general management of the fund will jeopardise the unit holders' capital and returns. In view of this, proper training and stringent selection of personnel to manage the fund as well as implementation of the fund's strategies are crucial towards mitigating this risk.
Inflation Risk	This is the risk that investors' investment in the unit trust fund may not grow or generate income at a rate that keeps pace with inflation. This would reduce investors' purchasing power even though the value of the investment in monetary terms has increased.

Financing Risk	This risk occurs when investors take a financing to finance their investment. The inherent risk of investing with borrowed money includes investors being unable to service the financing payments. In the event units are used as collateral, an investor may be required to top-up the investors' existing instalment if the prices of units fall below a certain level due to market conditions. Failing which, the units may be sold at a lower net asset value per unit as compared to the net asset value per unit at the point of purchase towards settling the financing.
Non-Compliance Risk	This is the risk where the fund manager does not comply with the provisions as set out in the deed, the prospectus, the laws/ guidelines that govern the fund or its internal procedures and policies. The non-compliance could be due to several factors such as a result of human errors and oversight, system failures or fraudulent acts by the fund manager. Whilst not every non-compliance will necessarily result in investment losses to the unit holders, there is still always a risk that the investments of the unit holders may be adversely affected, especially in situations where the fund manager is forced to sell the investments of the fund at a discount in order to resolve the non-compliance. In order to mitigate this risk, the fund manager has imposed stringent internal compliance controls.

Specific risks subject to the characteristics of the type of securities that the Fund invests in:

Profit Rate Risk	Changes in profit rates will impact the prices of Islamic money market instruments. In general, the prices of Islamic money market instruments are inversely related to the movement of profit rates. Higher profit rates will drive the prices of Islamic money market instruments lower. Profit rate risk can be mitigated if the Islamic money market instruments are held to maturity. The rates for Islamic Deposits are normally fixed during the specific and agreed tenure. Hence, any changes in the prevailing level of profit rates will not impact the earlier deposit rates that have been agreed between the Investment Manager and the financial institutions. However, in the event of rising profit rates, the Fund will lose the opportunity to earn higher profits during the specific tenure of the Islamic Deposits.
Credit and Default Risk	Credit risk relates to the creditworthiness of the issuers of the Islamic money market instruments and Islamic Deposits and their expected ability to make timely payment of profit and/or principal. Any adverse situations faced by the issuer may impact the value as well as liquidity of the Islamic money market instruments and Islamic Deposits. In the case of rated Islamic money market instruments and Islamic Deposits, this may lead to a credit downgrade. Default risk relates to the risk that an issuer of an Islamic money market instruments and Islamic Deposits either defaulting on payments or failing to make payments in a timely manner which will in turn adversely affect the value of the Islamic money market instruments and Islamic Deposits. This could adversely affect the value of the Fund.
Liquidity Risk	Liquidity risk refers to the ease of liquidating an asset depending on the asset's volume traded in the market. If the Fund holds assets that are illiquid, or are difficult to dispose of, the value of the Fund will be negatively affected when it has to sell such assets at unfavourable prices.
Shariah Specific Risk	It is generally accepted that the Malaysian bond market is less liquid than the equity market. Thus, the Fund may not be able to liquidate its investments easily if there are no willing buyers. To mitigate this risk, the Manager will constantly review and monitor the Fund and actively manage asset allocations of the Fund.

For further information, refer to the "General Risks" and "Specific Risks" of the Prospectus on page 8 & 9.
